Law of the Criminal Code

The Parliament of Romania adopts this Law.

GENERAL PART

TITLE I

Criminal law and the scope of its applicability

CHAPTER I

General Principles

ART. 1

Lawfulness of criminalization

- (1) Criminal law stipulates the actions that constitute offenses.
- (2) No person can have criminal liability for an action that was not covered by criminal law at the date of its commission.

ART. 2

Lawfulness of criminal penalty

- (1) Criminal law establishes applicable penalties and educational measures that can be ruled against persons who committed offenses, as well as security measures that can be ruled against persons who committed actions covered by criminal law.
- (2) No penalty, educational or security measure can be ruled that was not stipulated in the criminal law at the date when the violation was committed.
- (3) No penalty can be ruled and enforced outside the law's general limits.

CHAPTER II

Applicability of criminal law

SECTION 1

Applicability of criminal law in time

ART. 3

Activeness of criminal law

Criminal law shall be applicable to offenses committed when it is in force.

ART. 4*)

Applicability of the law in decriminalization

Criminal law does not apply to actions committed under the applicability of the previous law, if such actions are no longer included in the new law. In such case the serving of sentences educational and security measures ruled on under the previous law, as well as all criminal consequences of court judgments concerning those actions, shall cease once the new law comes into force.

#CIN

) Also see Art. 3 in Law #187/2012 (#M3), an Article that is reproduced in endnote 2 to the updated text..*

#B

ART. 5

Use of the more favorable criminal law until final judgment in a case

(1) In case one or several criminal acts have been enacted between the time the violation was committed and the final judgment in a case, the more favorable stipulation shall apply.

(2) Paragraph (1) above shall also apply to pieces of regulation or stipulations therein that are declared unconstitutional, as well as to Emergency Orders approved by Parliament, amended or supplemented, or rejected by Parliament, if while such texts were in force they included criminal stipulations that were more favorable.

ART. 6

Use of the more favorable criminal law after final judgment in a case

(1) Whenever, between the time of the final judgment in a criminal case and the time the sentence is fully served, a law is enacted that stipulates a lighter penalty, the original sentencing shall be reduced to the special maximum of the new sentencing if the previous one exceeded that special maximum.

(2) Whenever, between the time of the final judgment in a criminal case where the sentencing was life imprisonment and the time the sentence is fully served, a law is enacted that stipulates regular imprisonment for the same violation, life imprisonment shall be replaced by the maximum duration of imprisonment stipulated by the new law.

(3) If a new law replaces a sentencing of imprisonment by a fine, such sentencing shall indeed be replaced by a fine, without it being possible to go beyond the special maximum stipulated in the new law. Payment of the fine can be removed in part or in whole after calculation of the time already served in prison.

(4) Educational measures that have not yet been served and are not stipulated in the new law shall no longer be served; those that do have a correspondent in the new law shall be served according to the contents and within the limits established by the new law, if the latter is more favorable.

(5) Whenever the new law is more favorable as under paragraphs (1) - (4) above, complementary penalties and security measures that have not yet been served and are not stipulated by the new law shall no longer be served; those that do have a correspondent in the new law shall be served according to the contents and within the limits established by the new law.

(6) If the new law is only more favorable in terms of complementary sentencing or security measures, such shall be served according to the contents and within the limits established by the new law.

(7) When a stipulation in the new law speaks of definitive sentencing that has been enforced, the reduced or replaced penalty according to paragraphs (1) - (6) above shall be observed as regards the sentencing already served until the date the new law came in force.

ART. 7

Applicability of temporary criminal law

(1) Temporary criminal law shall apply to the offense that was committed while it was in force, even if the violation was not prosecuted or tried in that time interval.

(2) Temporary criminal law is such criminal law that stipulates the date it stops being applicable or whose applicability is restricted by the temporary nature of the situation that required it being passed.

SECTION 2

Applicability of criminal law in space

ART. 8

Territoriality of criminal law

(1) Romanian criminal law applies to offenses committed on the territory of Romania.

(2) The territory of Romania is defined as the expanse of land, the territorial sea waters and inland waters, complete with the soil, sub-soil and airspace located inside the national borders.

(3) A offense committed on the territory of Romania is defined as any offense committed on the territory defined at par. (2) or on a ship sailing under Romanian pavilion or on an aircraft registered in Romania.

(4) The offense is also considered as having been committed on the territory of Romania when on that territory or on a ship sailing under Romanian pavilion or on an aircraft registered in Romania an action was perpetrated with a view to perform, instigate or aid in the offense, or the results of the offense have been manifest, even if only in part.

ART. 9

Legal standing under criminal law

(1) Romanian criminal law applies to offenses committed outside Romanian territory by a Romanian citizen or a Romanian legal entity if the sentencing stipulated by Romanian law is life imprisonment or a term of imprisonment longer than 10 years.

(2) In the other cases Romanian criminal law applies to offenses committed outside Romanian territory by a Romanian citizen or a Romanian legal entity if the act is also criminalized by the criminal law of the country where it was committed or if it was committed in a location that is not subject to any State's jurisdiction.

#M3

(3) A criminal investigation can start on receiving authorization from the Chief Prosecutor of the Prosecutor's Office attached to the Court of Appeals in whose jurisdiction the first Prosecutor's Office is located that received information about the violation, or, as the case may be, from the Prosecutor General of the Prosecutor's Office attached to the High Court of Review and Justice. A prosecutor is entitled to issue such authorization within 30 days of receiving the application for authorization; such deadline can be extended, under the law, but for no more than a total of 180 days.

#B

ART. 10

Reality of criminal law

(1) Romanian criminal law applies to offenses committed outside Romanian territory by a foreign citizen or a stateless person against the Romanian State, against a Romanian citizen or against a Romanian legal entity.

(2) A criminal investigation can start on receiving authorization from the Prosecutor General of the Prosecutor's Office attached to the High Court of Review and Justice, and only if the violation is not the object of judicial procedures that are already ongoing in the State on whose territory it was committed.

ART. 11*)

Universality of criminal law

(1) Romanian criminal law also applies to other violations than those stipulated at Art. 10, committed outside Romanian territory by a foreign citizen or a stateless person who is located voluntarily on Romanian territory, in the following cases:

a) a offense was committed that the Romanian State has undertaken to repress on the basis of an international treaty, irrespective of whether it is stipulated by the criminal law of the State on whose territory it was committed;

b) extradition or surrender of the violator has been requested and denied.

(2) The stipulations of par. (1) lett. b) do not apply when, under the law of the state on whose territory the violation was committed, there is a cause to prevent the start of criminal action or the continuing of the criminal trial or the serving of the sentence or when the sentence has been served or when the sentence is considered as having been served.

(3) When the sentence has not been served or has only been served in part, the applicable procedure is that of the law on the recognition of foreign judgments.

#CIN

) Under Art. 237 in Law #187/2012 (#M3), in applying the stipulations of Art. 11 in the Criminal Code the condition of voluntary presence on Romanian territory shall be interpreted in the sense of the person being on said territory voluntarily at the date when the judicial bodies rule to deprive that person of their freedom or restrict that person's freedom in view of the offense that entails applicability of the principle of universality.*

#B

ART. 12

Criminal law and the international treaties

The stipulations of Art. 8 – 11 shall apply unless otherwise required under an international treaty Romania is a party to.

ART. 13

Jurisdiction immunity

Criminal law does not apply to offenses committed by diplomatic representatives of foreign States or other persons who, under international treaties, are not subject to the criminal jurisdiction of the Romanian State.

ART. 14

Extradition

(1) Extradition can be granted or requested on the basis of an international treaty Romania is a party to, or on a mutual basis, under the law.

(2) Surrender or extradition of an individual in relation to European Union Member States shall be granted or requested under the law.

(3) Surrender of an individual to an international criminal court shall be granted as under the law.

TITLE II

Offense

CHAPTER I

General stipulations

ART. 15

Main features of a offense

- (1) A offense is an action stipulated by criminal law that has been committed under guilt, without justification and for the commission of which a person can be charged.
- (2) A offense is the only basis for criminal liability.

ART. 16

Guilt

- (1) An action only constitutes a offense if committed under the form of guilt required by criminal law.
- (2) Guilt exists when an action is committed with direct intent, with basic intent or oblique intent.
- (3) An action is committed with intent when the perpetrator:
 - a) can foresee the outcome of their actions, in the expectation of causing such outcome by perpetrating the act;
 - b) can foresee the outcome of their actions and, while not intending to produce it, nevertheless accepts the likelihood that it will occur.
- (4) An action is committed with basic intent when the perpetrator:
 - a) can foresee the outcome of their actions but does not accept it, believing without reason that such outcome will not occur;
 - b) cannot foresee the outcome of their actions, though they should and could have done so.
- (5) Oblique intent exists when an act, consisting of an intentional action or inaction, causes unintended more serious consequences and is attributable to the perpetrator.
- (6) The act consisting of an action or inaction shall constitute a offense when committed with direct intent. The act committed with basic intent constituted a offense only when the law specifically establishes it as such.

ART. 17

Perpetrated violation committed by omission

A perpetrated offense that involves the causing of an outcome is also considered as having been committed by omission, when:

- a) there exists a legal or contract obligation to take action;
- b) the author of the omission, through previous action or inaction, created a state of threat for the protected social value, which facilitated the occurrence of the outcome.

CHAPTER II

Justifying causes

ART. 18

General stipulations

- (1) An act stipulated by criminal law shall not constitute a offense if one of the justifying causes stipulated by law applies.
- (2) The effects of justifying causes extends to the other participants in the act.

ART. 19

Legitimate defense

- (1) An act stipulated by criminal law is justified when committed in legitimate defense.
- (2) A person is in legitimate defense when committing an act to remove a material direct, immediate and unjust attack that endangers their own person, or another person, their rights or a general interest, if the defense is proportional with the seriousness of the attack.
- (3) A person is presumed to have been in legitimate defense as defined by par. (2) when they committed an act so as to repel an individual having entered a domicile, room, annex or enclosed structure appertaining to such domicile, without any right to do so, by violence, deception, breaking in, or other such unlawful procedure, or during the night.

ART. 20

State of necessity

- (1) An act stipulated by criminal law is justified when committed in a state of necessity.
- (2) A person is deemed to be in a state of necessity when they commit an act in order to save life, bodily integrity or health of their own person or another's from an immediate threat which cannot be removed otherwise; the same applies for saving an important asset of their own or another person's or a general interest. This principle applies if the consequences of the act are not clearly more serious than those that would have occurred in case the threat was not removed.

ART. 21

Exercising a right or meeting an obligation

- (1) An act stipulated by criminal law is justified when committed in the exercise of a right granted by law or of an obligation mandated by law, in compliance with the conditions and limitations stipulated by law.
- (2) An act stipulated by criminal law is justified when committed in complying with an obligation mandated by a jurisdictional authority, in the form stipulated by law, if the act is not visibly illegal.

ART. 22

Consent of the victim

(1) An act stipulated by criminal law is justified when committed based on consent of the victim, if said victim had legal authority over the injured or threatened social value.

(2) Consent by the victim does not apply in case of crimes against life, and in case the law excludes this avenue of justification.

CHAPTER III

Causes of non-imputability

ART. 23

General stipulations

(1) An act stipulated by criminal law does not constitute a offense when committed in the conditions of one of the causes of non-imputability.

(2) The effect of causes of non-imputability does not extend to participants in the act, except for fortuitous participants.

ART. 24

Physical constraint

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed as a result of physical constraint which the perpetrator was unable to withstand.

ART. 25

Moral constraint

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed as a result of moral constraint, exercised by threatening grave danger of the person of the perpetrator or another person and which cannot be removed in any other way.

ART. 26

Non-accountable Excessiveness

(1) An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed by a person in legitimate defense who exceeded, because of psychological turmoil or fear, the limits of defense proportional with the seriousness of the attack.

(2) An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed by a person in a state of necessity, who at the moment of committing the act did not realize they were causing consequences that were clearly more serious than those that would have occurred had the threat not been removed.

ART. 27

Underage perpetrator

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed by an underage person, who at the date of commission of the act did not meet the legal requirements for criminal liability.

ART. 28

Mental incompetence

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed by a person who, at the time of commission of the act, was unable to understand their actions or inactions or to control them, either because of a mental condition or because of other reasons.

ART. 29

Intoxication

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed by a person who, at the time of commission of the act, was unable to understand their actions or inactions or to control them, because of involuntary intoxication with alcohol or other psychoactive substances.

ART. 30

Error

(1) An act stipulated by criminal law does not constitute an offense when committed by a person who, at the time of commission of the act, was unaware of the existence of a state, situation or circumstance that determines the criminal nature of the act.

(2) The stipulations of par. (1) also apply to acts committed with basic intent that are punishable under criminal law, but only if ignorance of the state, situation or circumstance is not itself the result of basic intent.

(3) The state, situation or circumstance the perpetrator was unaware of at the moment of commission of the act shall not constitute an aggravating circumstance or aggravating circumstantial element.

(4) The stipulations of par. (1) - (3) shall apply accordingly to the case of ignorance of a legal stipulation outside the scope of criminal law.

(5) An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when committed as a result of ignorance or erroneous knowledge of its illegal character owing to a circumstance that could not have been avoided in any way.

ART. 31

Fortuitous case

An act stipulated by criminal law does not carry imputability when its result is a consequence of a circumstance that could not have been foreseen.

CHAPTER IV

Attempt

ART. 32

Attempt

- (1) An attempt means acting on the intent to commit a offense, where the consummation of the act was interrupted or failed to cause its effect.
- (2) “Attempt” does not exist when the impossibility to consummate the offense was the result of the way in which consummation was designed.

ART. 33

Penalty for attempt

- (1) Attempt shall be punishable only when the law specifies it.
- (2) Attempt shall be punishable by half the penalty specified by law for the consummated offense. When the law specifies life imprisonment for the consummated offense, and the court is inclined to rule towards that sentencing, attempt shall be punishable by no less than 10 and no more than 20 years of imprisonment.

ART. 34

Withdrawal and precluding consummation of offense

- (1) A perpetrator shall not be punishable if, before the offense was identified by the authorities, they withdrew from the criminal activity or reported the criminal activity to the authorities so that consummation might be precluded, or by themselves precluded the consummation of the offense.
- (2) If the acts committed until withdrawal or precluding of consummation constitute another offense, the latter shall be punishable.

CHAPTER V

Unity and plurality of offenses

ART. 35*)

Unity of a continued offense and of a complex offense

- (1) An offense is continued when a person commits, at various time intervals but for the realization of the same resolution and against the same passive subject, actions or inactions each having the content of the same offense.

(2) An offense is complex when its contents include, as a constitutive element or as an aggravating circumstantial element, an action or an inaction that is in itself an act provided in the criminal law.

#CIN

*) We are quoting below the provisions of art. 238 of Law no. 187/2012 (#M3).

#M3

"ART. 238

In the application of the provisions under art. 35 paragraph (1) of the Criminal Code, the unity of the passive subject is also achieved when:

- a) the goods deemed the object of the offense are jointly owned by several people;*
- b) the offense has prejudiced different secondary passive subjects, but there is only one main passive subject."*

#B

ART. 36

Penalty for the continued offense and for the complex offense

(1) The penalty provided by law for the offense committed applies for the continued offense, to which a maximum increase of 3 years can be added up for imprisonment, respectively a least a third in case of fines.

(2) Complex violations are sanctioned with the penalty provided by the law for that offense.

(3) Complex violations committed intentionally, if only the more serious outcome of the secondary activity has occurred, are sanctioned with the penalty provided by the law for the committed complex offense.

ART. 37

Recalculation of the penalty for continued or complex violations

If an offender who received a final conviction for a continued or complex offense is subsequently tried also for other actions or inactions included in the contents of the same offense, taking into account the offense committed as a whole, an appropriate penalty is established, and it cannot be shorter than the one previously handed down.

ART. 38

Multiple violations

(1) There exist multiple violations when two or several violations have been committed by the same person, via various actions or inactions, before receiving a final conviction for any of them. There also exist actual multiple violations when one of those has been committed in order to perpetrate or conceal another offense.

(2) There exist formal multiple violations when an action or inaction committed by a person, because of the circumstances under which it occurred and because of the consequences it produced, contains the elements of several violations.

ART. 39

Main penalty for multiple offenses

(1) In case of multiple offenses, the penalty for each offense is established separately and the penalty is applied as follows:

a) when a penalty of life imprisonment and one or more penalties of imprisonment or fine have been established, the penalty of life imprisonment shall be applied;

b) when only penalties of imprisonment have been established, the heaviest penalty shall be applied, which can be increased by a third of the total of all the other penalties handed down;

c) when only fines have been established, the heaviest penalty shall be applied, which can be increased by a third of the total of all the other penalties handed down;

d) when a penalty of imprisonment and a penalty of fine have been established, the penalty of imprisonment shall be applied, to which the full fine can be added;

e) when several penalties of imprisonment and several penalties of fine have been established, the penalty of imprisonment shall be applied, according to letter b), to which the full fine can be added, according to letter c).

(2) When several penalties of imprisonment have been established, if, by adding to the heaviest penalty a third of the total of all other penalties of imprisonment, and for at least one of the concurrent violations the penalty provided by law is 20 years or more, the penalty of life imprisonment can be applied.

ART. 40

Merger of penalties for multiple offenses

(1) If an offender that has been handed a final sentence is subsequently tried for one of the multiple offenses, Art. 39 shall apply.

(2) Art. 39 shall also apply in the case where, after a conviction judgment has remained final, it is found that the convicted individual had previously been convicted for one of the multiple offenses.

(3) If the offender has served their penalty as previously sentenced, in full or in part, the portion that has been served shall be deducted from the length of sentencing for the multiple offenses.

(4) Stipulations concerning sentencing in case of multiple offenses also apply to the case where life imprisonment was subject to commutation or replacement by simple imprisonment.

(5) In case of a merger of penalties as under paragraphs (1) - (4) consideration shall also be given to penalties enforced through a conviction that was returned abroad, for one of the multiple offenses, if the conviction is recognized under the law.

ART. 41

Repeat offense

(1) A repeat offense exists when, after a conviction and sentence of more than one year of imprisonment remains final, and before rehabilitation or completion of sentenced term, the convicted individual commits another violation with direct intent or oblique intent, for which the law mandates a term of more than one year of imprisonment.
