V. Draft Amendments to Act on complaints regarding the violation of a party's right to have a case heard in preparatory proceedings conducted or supervised by a prosecutor and court proceedings without undue delay of 17 June 2004 (extracts from the Act, with amendments marked)

Art. 1.1. This Act regulates the rules and procedures for filing and adjudicating complaints by a party whose right to have a case heard without undue delay has been violated as a result of an action or inaction by a court or a prosecutor conducting or supervising a pretrial investigation.

2. The provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly where, as a result of an action or inaction by a court or a court enforcement officer, a party's right to conduct and conclude, without undue delay, an enforcement proceeding or another proceeding concerning the execution of a court judgment as well as a case concerning the application for an enforcement clause to be affixed to an enforcement title, has been violated.

Art. 2.1. A party may file a complaint seeking a determination that, in the proceedings to which the complaint relates, there has been a violation of their right to have their case heard without undue delay, if the proceedings aimed at issuing a decision concluding the case last longer than is necessary to clarify the relevant factual and legal circumstances, or longer than is necessary to resolve an enforcement matter or other matter concerning the enforcement of a court judgment (excessive length of proceedings).

2. To determine whether proceedings in a case have been unduly prolonged, it is necessary, in particular, to assess the timeliness and correctness of the actions taken by the court to issue a decision concluding the proceedings in the case, or the actions taken by the prosecutor conducting or supervising the preliminary investigation to conclude the preparatory proceedings, or the actions taken by the court or a court enforcement officer to conduct and conclude an enforcement case or another case concerning the enforcement of a court judgment. In making this assessment, the total duration of the proceedings to date, from their initiation until the complaint is heard, is taken into account, regardless of the stage at which the complaint was filed, as well as the nature of the case, the degree of its factual and legal complexity, the significance for the party that filed the complaint, the issues resolved therein, and the conduct of the parties, in particular the party that alleged the excessive length of the proceedings.

3. Where, in course of proceedings, a ruling has been repealed due to the court's determination or assessment of circumstances relating to the appointment of a judge or the nomination of an assistant judge, or the resulting authorisation to perform judicial functions, the complaint may be dismissed only if the party filing the complaint referred to in Article 2(1) has contributed to the prolongation of the proceedings by its own conduct, in particular by requesting the court to determine or assess the appointment of a judge or the nomination of an assistant judge or the resulting authorisation to perform judicial functions.

Art. 3. The following are entitled to file a complaint:

- 1) in proceedings concerning fiscal crimes and fiscal offenses—the party;
- 2) in proceedings concerning misdemeanors—the party;

- 3) in proceedings concerning the liability of legal entities for acts prohibited under penalty of law – the party or the petitioner;
- 4) in criminal proceedings – a party and the victim, even if the victim is not a party;
- 5) in civil proceedings – a party, an intervenor, and a participant in the proceedings;
- 6) in administrative court proceedings – the complainant and a participant in the proceedings with the rights of a party;
- 7) in enforcement proceedings and in other proceedings concerning the enforcement of a court judgment, as well as in the proceedings for affixing an enforcement clause to an enforcement title —a party and any other person exercising their rights in such proceedings.

Art. 12.1. The court shall dismiss an unfounded complaint.

2. If the complaint is upheld, the court shall find that there has been a delay in the proceedings to which the complaint relates.

3. At the request of the complainant or on its own initiative, the court shall recommend that the court hearing the case on its merits, or the prosecutor conducting or supervising the preliminary investigation, take appropriate action within a specified time limit, unless such recommendations are clearly unnecessary. Such recommendations may not encroach upon the court's assessment of the facts and law of the case.

4. Upon granting the complaint, the court shall, at the complainant's request, award a monetary sum ranging from ~~2,000~~ 4,000 to ~~20,000~~ 40,000 zlotys from the State Treasury, or— in the case of a complaint regarding the excessive length of proceedings conducted by a court enforcement officer—from the court enforcement officer. The amount of the monetary sum, within the limits specified in the first sentence, shall be no less than ~~500~~ 1,000 zlotys for each year of the proceedings to date, regardless of how many stages of the proceedings the established delay concerns. The court may award a monetary sum exceeding ~~500~~ 1,000 zlotys for each year of the proceedings to date if the case is of particular importance to the claimant, who has not culpably contributed to the prolongation of the proceedings through his or her conduct. Any amounts already awarded to the claimant as monetary compensation in the same case shall be credited against this sum. When awarding monetary compensation to the claimant, the court shall specify the period of the proceedings' delay to which it relates. § 17. The Supreme Court shall dismiss the motion if it is unfounded.
